

Implementation Plan for the Third Cycle Institutional Review

The concept of the third cycle of institutional review is to assess the educational effectiveness of the universities and their strategies to continuously improve.

Based on this, this project used document analysis, expert consultation meetings, and university public hearings to reach these goals and got the following conclusions. First, the following conclusions were made regarding the implementation of the institutional reviews: the institutional review was conducted over a three-year period, the checklist of standards and core indicators was used to assist universities in preparing for the assessment, the interview process was designed to strengthen the participation of stakeholders, and the assessment results were only given as an overall result and follow-up actions were strengthened; In terms of the submission and review of quantitative data of the universities' quality, it was concluded that the submission and review of quantitative data were conducted online and used the database and public information to let the universities no longer need to fill out duplicate data.

Key words: institutional review, evaluation validity, empowerment